STAR OF MY LOVE.

Sunlight reminds me
Of thee, love,
So sunny is joy
When we meet;
And moonlight
Reminds me
Of thee, love,
For, like thy smile,
It is sweet!
And starlight
Reminds me
Of thee, love,
So shines for me
Hope's star;
And thou, like a star,
Dost ever, I see,
So near,
And yet so far!

THE SQUIRT.

The way you always promenade, you think you are a prince,
 We'd find as much brains in your head, as we would in a quince,
 You wear the very best of clothes, and try the girls to kill—
 You'd either better take them off, or pay the tailor's bill!
 You easily can talk a month upon a slight pretence,
 But yet, your silly blather, is all devoid of sense.

You haven't shed your scolding clothes, from all that I have gleaned,
 Go right back to your mammy, and see that you are weaned,
 It makes us sick to see the airs you put on when you flirt,
 You vain, conceited puppy! You incorrigible squirt!
 We thought to send you to the Park, to sprinkle every road,
 But we knew the dogs would eat you, for they'd take you!

Miss Little W. Haley.
