SOHO welcomes you to

National Historic Preservation Week

During the week of May 14 - 20 we are hosting a series of tours and lectures celebrating San Diego's military heritage. Join us and Old Town Trolley Tours for a memorable week.

Coastal defense at Fort Rosecrans

The week begins with a tour of Cabrillo National Monument which was the site of the Fort Rosecrans coastal gun emplacements during WW II. The tour will take us around the site and then through the lighthouse which was used as an observation post during the war.

Naval Air Station - North Island

On Tuesday, a slide show and a panel discussion by leading local historians, moderated by Meredith Vezina, publisher of Traditions Magazine, will focus on area military bases and their roles in WW II.

Parade ground, Marine Corps Recruit Depot

The next tour will take us to the Naval Air Station - North Island where we will visit the facility designed for the Navy by Bertram Goodue. At Rockwell Field we will see the facility designed for the Army by Albert Kahn. Other highlights include many of the industrial facilities that were built for WW II.

USS Recruit, Naval Training Center

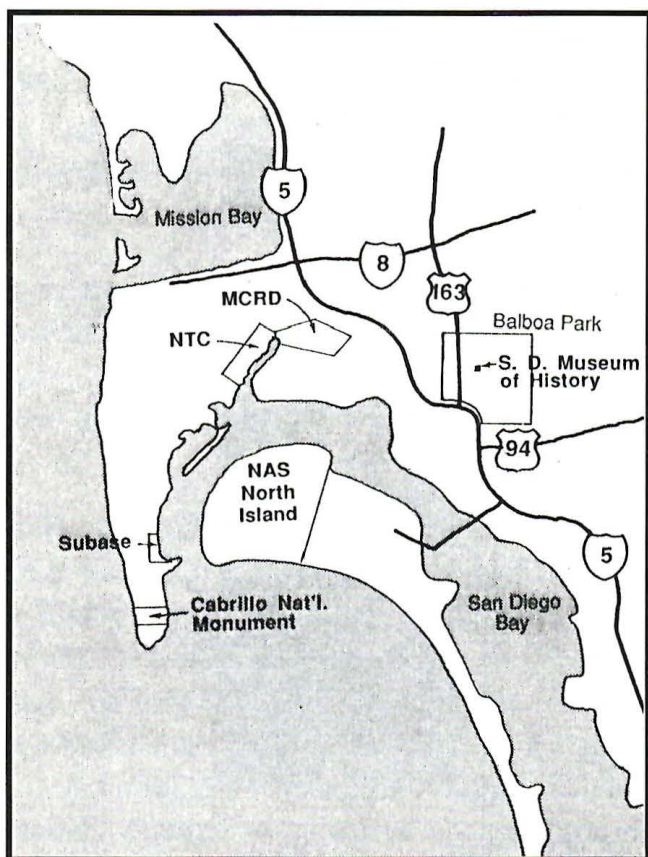

The combined tour of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot and Naval Training Center will include the historic district at MCRD and a tour through NTC focusing on the pending base closure and what will happen to the historic buildings.

Our final tour takes us to the Naval Submarine Base, where we tour the base and visit the Fort Guijarros archeological site.
